

International Languages Week – Lincoln High School 2010

Lincoln High School celebrated International Languages week with a wide range of activities.

Students enjoyed a noodle lunch and a Japanese Rice ball workshop. These activities were open to all students here at school. Other activities included a French chocolate croissant sale, an international quiz and a performance of songs and dances from a visiting group from New Caledonia.

Students could also enter in a Haiku competition with entries being in either Japanese or English. We had about 50 entries and the top 3 were given prizes.

The workshops that involved food were particularly popular and many students who do not normally take languages were involved in a wide range of activities.

During the week there was a visiting group from Japan so all of the Junior Japanese classes had 6-8 Japanese students so that made learning much more interesting and conversational based. I would like to thank the Sasakawa fund for helping make some of these activities possible.
